The HISTORICAL CHARTS OF THE LITERATURES

(English, 25c.; American, 20c.; German, 25c.)
(Others in preparation)

Every year more Schools, Normal Schools, and Colleges are adding them to their regular textbook requirements.

When used by students throughout the year, they

Keep Chronology Clear

When used in review at the end of the year, they dissipate the historical fog which will inevitably have accumulated.

Incidentally, the Charts put a new interest into the final review—a thing altogether difficult and desirable.

A postal brings Circular giving graduated discounts on quantities, with a miniature photographic reproduction of the English Charts.

These Texts have many attractive original features, found in no other edition. Every teacher who has used them is enthusiastic over the "Scene-Settings" in the Shakespeare texts. These help the student to "visualize" the scene. The aim of the notes is to aid the pupil in doing his own thinking. The inclusion of the Outline Study is an especially valuable feature.

THE DRAMA for May offers two plays by whose dramatic work has never been accessible in English. The translation has been made by the celebrated Imagist poet, RICHARD ALDINGTON, who contributes also a skillful critique of De Gourmont's work. The plays are printed by an authorization given a few weeks before the playwright's death.

Among the other articles is one by ALEXANDER BAKSHY, an associate of the Russian producer, MEYERHOLD, on The Cinematograph as Art. In this the author shows that the great field open to the "movies" has not even been discovered by the film producer of today.

MR. CHARLES LEMMI contributes a brilliant discussion of The Italian Stage of Today, not so much a study of the individual plays as an attempt to analyze and explain the forces at work in the present-day Italian theater.

The Hull House Players, an organization of more than local fame, is the subject of a brief history by its founder and director, LAURA DAINY PELHAM.

Many other articles on current problems of the drama, reviews, and bibliographies complete the number.

THE SCHOOL REVIEW

A Journal of Secondary Education

Subscription price, $1.50

Canadian postage 30 cents; foreign postage 52 cents

As an exponent of the ideas and work of the School of Education the School Review endeavors to foster the scientific study of educational problems, and its editorial policy is to publish only such contributions as are definite, concrete, and based upon specific data, real investigation, and reliable information. In short, the purpose of the editors is to make the School Review representative of the new scientific attitude in the study of education.

The School Review is not a journal of opinion or sentiment, but presents only definite contributions based on real investigation.

Subscription price, $1.50

Canadian postage 30 cents; foreign postage 46 cents

The Elementary School Journal is alive to its responsibility to both teacher and administrator—as it is alive also to the mutual interdependence in interest of these classes. It is edited with these principles in mind. Its editorial office is a laboratory—the School of Education of the University of Chicago—and its pages present the results of its laboratory work. Edited as it is by the Faculty of the School of Education, of which PROFESSOR CHARLES H. JUDD is Head, it bears the stamp of academic authority, of high aims, and of wide experience.

The Elementary School Journal is devoted to the interests of workers in the primary schools.

Professor of Public Speaking in Cornell University

"I have finished reading your book with especial care, going over parts of it more than once, and have greatly enjoyed it. . . . I do not know of any book which seems to me, for practical purposes, as good."—ANDREW D. WHITE.

"Professor Winans has made a large study of the best writers on psychology and rhetoric and oratory. . . . And he knows men and the practical questions of life. The book is a fine combination of keen thought, common sense, and idealism. . . ."—ARTHUR S. HOYT, Professor of Practical Theology, in the Auburn Seminary Record.

"The book is invaluable for that unfortunate class of men whose duties include a certain amount of public speaking for which they have had no training, except in the unsatisfactory school of experience."—CUTHBERT W. POUND, of the New York State Court of Appeals.

Pancoast's English Prose and Verse

From Beowulf to Stevenson

By HENRY S. PANCOAST

816 pp. 8vo. $1.75

JOHN DOLMAN, JR., University of Pennsylvania:—

You will be glad to know that I have decided to use Pancoast's English Prose and Verse for my class in literature this semester. It is a good book; I like especially the first two sections and the very useful appendix of selections illustrating the language.

F. N. PATTEE, State College, Pa:—

This is one of the best collections I know of English masterpieces, covering the whole area of English literature. I am delighted with it, and shall use it at the first opportunity I have. It is a discovery.

E. C. BALDWIN, University of Illinois:—

With its inclusiveness and with the discrimination shown in making the selections, I have been much impressed. An especially valuable feature is the material included in the appendix. Especially to be commended is the inclusion of complete selections wherever this is possible.

FRED L. HOMER, Pittsburgh High Schools, Pa:—

I believe it to be the best single volume collection for school use I am acquainted with.

ENGLISH PROSE AND POETRY

1137-1892

Edited by JOHN M. MANLY

The University of Chicago

792 pages. $2.00

This volume was prepared in response to the wishes of teachers who need a comprehensive collection of literature in a single volume provided with notes. It presents all necessary material for a rapid survey course and is thoroughly equipped in the matter of editorial material. About one hundred pages of notes, discussing textual difficulties or providing biographical matter, are placed at the end of the volume. Shorter notes are placed at the foot of the page. All annotations have been restricted to a practical minimum. The makeup of the book is most attractive. Thin paper renders it of convenient size, while the large, clear type fits it admirably for students' use. It is a good book to look upon, good to use and good to keep.

WOOLLEY'S WRITTEN ENGLISH

A Course of Lessons in the Main Things to Know in order to Write English Correctly

A book that does for first-year English classes what Woolley's Handbook of Composition does so successfully for more advanced classes.

J. L. Thalman, Principal High School, New Castle, Pa.: I am convinced that this book will give the pupil a clear, concise grasp of English as it should be written and spoken.

R. A. Mills, High School, Waxahachie, Texas: The directions are so explicit that the pupil cannot go wrong in following them.

H. S. Hibbinsteel, State Normal School, Stevens Point, Wis.: I am glad some one is thinking conservatively and emphatically upon written English in the midst of the enthusiastic discussion upon oral English.

L. A. Sherman, Professor of English, University of Nebraska: I am much pleased with it. I am persuaded that the mechanics of writing should be treated under a different rubric and indeed a different title from rhetoric proper. This book fills all the needs of the former sort of treatise.

Katherine G. Shine, Highland School, Holyoke, Mass.: Refreshingly new and modern.

Lewis and Hosis's Practical English for High Schools

By WILLIAM D. LEWIS, Principal William Penn High School for Girls, Philadelphia, and JAMES FLEMING HOSIC, Managing Editor, The English Journal, Secretary of National Council of Teachers of English, Head of Department of English, Chicago Normal College, Chicago. Cloth, 12mo, 350 pp. approximately. Price $1.00.

THIS book attempts to teach the old subject of English composition in a way that is more informal and interesting than is customary. There is a liveliness of tone to the presentation which is well calculated to appeal to the pupil and spur him on to do the work presented. Each topic begins with illustrative selections, many of them from student themes, and from these suggestive questions bring out the most important principles, which in their turn are made the basis of exercises to be performed by the pupil. There is an absence of formal and formidable rules.

Throughout the work it is the practical side that receives the chief emphasis. The pupil is given a working knowledge of modern business methods. Besides being drilled thoroughly in those fundamental principles that are common to all kinds of good English, his attention is devoted to the use of cards for filing and outlining, the study of business reports, business letters, proof reading, and newspaper writing. An attempt is also made to teach the pupil how to criticize and correct his own work, and how to make correct recitations. A brief review of the essentials of grammar is included.
